Outline

Part	Content	Law used
1. News	News links, what happened, timeline, stakeholders	All news dated 2026
2. Facts	All facts (F1 to F12), then every provision of the Division checked element by element	Sections 238 to 244/7
3. Question	The one legal question we answer
4. Law	Which law we use, why, and which sections were violated	Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535
5. Analysis	Rules 1 to 4, each answered as Law/Rule, Analysis, Conclusion	Sections 244/3, 244/5, 296 to 297/1, 317/1 to 317/8
6. Conclusion	One answer to the Question

Our test for every rule: a section is violated only if all of its elements are met. If one element is missing, it is not violated.

News: What Happened

Summary of the main news

- Who: นางสาวภรัณยา รุจนพรพจี, an individual investor and a major shareholder of SABUY.
- What: created the price and volume of TSR shares, which are listed on the SET.
- When: 22 June to 31 August 2022, a total of 47 trading days.
- How: hit the offers, swept the sell orders, and held large bids at price levels 1 and 2.
- Why (SEC): a fair-value gain for SABUY at the end of Q2/2022, and a profit from the price spread.
- Result so far: CSC sanction of THB 32.3 million (Jan 2026). She refused, so the SEC asked the prosecutor to sue for THB 43.0 million plus interest (May 2026).

Facts: Order Book

Bid volume	Bid	Offer	Offer volume
2,500,000	3.80	3.82	40,000
1,800,000	3.78	3.84	55,000
60,000	3.76	3.86	30,000
45,000	3.74	3.88	70,000
30,000	3.72	3.90	25,000

Shaded cells: her large bids at levels 1 and 2. Illustration only; the numbers are hypothetical, not actual TSR data.

How the pattern works

1. Sweep. She buys every offer at 3.82, so the last traded price moves up (F3).

2. Wall. She places large bids at 3.80 and 3.78, so the board shows strong demand (F4).

3. Squeeze. Other buyers cannot get filled at the bid, so they pay the offer or more. The cycle repeats every day for 47 trading days (F3, F4).

Facts: Motive and Background

Motive stated by the SEC (F5)

- Lift TSR's price so that SABUY could record a fair-value gain on its TSR investment at the end of Q2/2022 (30 Jun 2022).
- Make a profit from the price spread.

Background found in 2022 news (supporting facts)

No.	Fact	Source
F10	3 May 2022: SABUY agreed to buy 24.90% of TSR. It expected to recognise TSR's results only from Q3/2022, which fits the SEC's point that TSR was at fair value at the end of Q2.	RYT9, 3 May 2022; Prachachat, 8 Sep 2022
F11	17 Jun 2022: she bought 22.5 million TSR shares at THB 5.25 each (market close THB 4.24), raising her own stake to 13.02% of TSR.	Hoonsmart, 18 Jun 2022
F12	TSR's price rose from THB 4.24 (17 Jun 2022) to THB 6.60 (30 Aug 2022), about 56%.	Hoonsmart, 18 Jun and 30 Aug 2022

13.02%

Her own stake in TSR after 17 Jun 2022, five days before the period began (F11).

So both SABUY and she personally gained when TSR's price rose.

Result: no other offence in ss.240 to 244/2 has all of its elements met.

Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535, ss.240–244/2 (pp.80–82)

Facts and Law Checklist (4/4)

Provision	What the law requires (elements)	Facts from the news	Result s.244/6(1)	Opens a joint bank account for securities-trading payments	She placed the orders herself. No other person's account, payment, collateral or transfer is reported, so the 'other person' element of every item is missing (F3, F9).	Not met: other person missing
s.244/6(2)	Lets another person benefit from using one's own bank account s.244/6(3)	Lets another person use one's own securities trading account s.244/6(4)	Pays or receives payment for securities trading for another person s.244/6(5)	Places money or assets as collateral for another person's trading
s.244/6(6)	Lets another person receive benefits or oversee payments of one's trading
s.244/6(7)	Transfers or receives securities between each other s.244/7	(a) places, modifies or cancels orders, (b) knows it may make the market abnormal, (c) the trading system is delayed or stops	No delay or halt of the trading system (F9)	Not met: (c) missing

Result: across all four checklists, only s.244/3(1) and (2), with presumption s.244/5(5), have every element met.

Question

Has นางสาวภรัณยา รุจนพรพจี committed unfair securities trading under the Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535, and what sanctions may be imposed on her?

We answer it with four rules, each in three steps: 1. Law/Rule, 2. Analysis, 3. Conclusion.

Rule 1: Section 244/3(1), misleading other persons

Rule 2: Section 244/3(2), continuous trading with intent

Rule 3: criminal penalties, Sections 296, 296/1, 296/2 and 297/1

Rule 4: civil sanctions, Sections 317/1 to 317/8

Law
Law	Sections	Why we use it	Result
Unfair securities trading	ss.238 to 244/7	TSR is a listed security (s.238), and the conduct is placing trading orders	Violated: s.244/3(1) and (2)
Criminal penalties	ss.296, 296/1, 296/2, 297/1	They set the punishment for s.244/3(1) and (2)	Apply if she is prosecuted (Rule 3)
Civil sanctions	ss.317/1 to 317/8	The route the SEC used: the CSC, then the Civil Court	Apply: she refused, so the SEC sued (Rule 4)

Violated: Section 244/3(1) and (2), supported by the presumption in Section 244/5(5).

Not violated: ss.240, 241, 242, 244/1, 244/2 and 244/7, because at least one element is missing (Checklists 3 and 4).
Not used: s.244/5(4), because no news gives facts about pre-opening or pre-closing orders.

Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535: Chapter 8 Division 1; ss.296–297/1; ss.317/1–317/8

Rule 1: Section 244/3(1)

1. Law/Rule

Under the Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535 Section 244/3(1)

No person shall take any of the following actions:

(1) placing a trading order or trading securities in such a way that misleads other persons regarding the price or volume of the securities trading;

Section 244/5(5), presumption

Any of the following acts shall be presumed to be an act that has caused other persons to have a misunderstanding of the price or volume of the securities trading under Section 244/3 (1) ... :

(5) placing, modifying, or cancelling a securities trading order in such a way that obstructs securities trading of other persons, which causes other persons to place a trading order at a higher or lower price than it should have been.

Section 238, scope

The provisions under this Division shall apply to listed securities and securities traded in the over-the-counter center.

Criminal Code Section 59, intent (summary)

A person is criminally liable only for an act done intentionally, that is, done consciously while wanting or foreseeing its result.

Elements to prove

No.	Element
1	Any person
2	Places a trading order or trades securities
3	Listed securities (s.238)
4	Misleads others about price or volume
4(i)	s.244/5(5): places, modifies or cancels orders
4(ii)	s.244/5(5): obstructs other persons' trading
4(iii)	s.244/5(5): others trade at a worse price
5	Intent (Criminal Code s.59)

Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535, ss.238, 244/3(1), 244/5(5) (pp.80–83); Criminal Code s.59

Rule 1: Analysis and Conclusion

2. Analysis

From the facts, นางสาวภรัณยา placed large buy orders in TSR for 47 trading days. Under Section 244/3(1), every element is met:

First, she is an individual, so she is “any person” (F1).

Second, she placed trading orders and traded by hitting the offers and sweeping the sell orders (F3).

Third, TSR is listed on the SET, so Section 238 applies (F2).

Fourth, her large bids at levels 1 and 2 obstructed other buyers, who had to bid higher (F4). All three elements of s.244/5(5) are met, so the law presumes that others were misled; the SEC also found the public was misled (F6). No s.244/4 exception applies.

Fifth, she acted intentionally (Criminal Code s.59): she repeated the orders for 47 days with clear reasons to lift the price, including her own 13.02% stake (F5, F11).

Element check

Element	Facts	Result
1 Any person	F1	Met
2 Order or trade	F3	Met

4(ii) Obstructs others	F4	Met
4(iii) Worse price	F4	Met

3. Conclusion

In conclusion, because every element is met, นางสาวภรัณยา’s conduct violates Section 244/3(1).

Facts F1–F6, F11; Securities and Exchange Act ss.238, 244/3(1), 244/4, 244/5(5); Criminal Code s.59

Rule 2: Section 244/3(2)

1. Law/Rule

Under the Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535 Section 244/3(2)

No person shall take any of the following actions: ...

(2) placing a securities trading order or trading securities on a continued basis with an intent to cause the price or the volume of such securities trading to be inconsistent with the normal market condition.

Section 244/5(5), presumption

Any of the following acts shall be presumed to be ... an act that has caused the price or volume of such securities trading to be inconsistent with the normal market condition under Section 244/3 (2), as the case may be: ...

(5) placing, modifying, or cancelling a securities trading order in such a way that obstructs securities trading of other persons, which causes other persons to place a trading order at a higher or lower price than it should have been.

Not used: Section 244/5(4) (pre-opening or pre-closing orders). The SEC cited it, but no news gives facts for its elements (F9).

Elements to prove

No.	Element
1	Any person
2	Places a trading order or trades securities
3	Listed securities (s.238)
4	On a continued basis
5	Intent (Criminal Code s.59)
6	Special intent: abnormal price or volume
6(i)	s.244/5(5): places orders
6(ii)	s.244/5(5): obstructs others
6(iii)	s.244/5(5): others trade at a worse price

Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535, ss.244/3(2), 244/5(4)(5) (pp.82–83); Criminal Code s.59

Rule 2: Analysis and Conclusion

2. Analysis

From the facts, she kept buying TSR for 47 trading days while SABUY and she both held large TSR stakes (F3, F10, F11). Under Section 244/3(2), every element is met:

First to Third, as in Rule 1, she is any person who placed trading orders in a listed security (F1, F2, F3).

Fourth, the orders were on a continued basis, day after day for 47 trading days (F3).

Fifth, the orders were deliberate and repeated, so she acted intentionally (F3, F4).

Sixth, she intended an abnormal price: SABUY needed a higher Q2 price, she wanted a spread profit, and her own 13.02% stake rose with TSR's 56% gain (F5, F11, F12). Her bids meet all three elements of s.244/5(5) (F4), and the SEC found the price was moved away from normal (F6).

However, we do not use s.244/5(4), because no facts support it (F9).

Element check

Element	Facts	Result
1 to 3 As in Rule 1	F1–F3	Met
4 Continued basis	F3	Met
5 Intent	F3, F4	Met
6 Special intent	F5, F11, F12	Met

6(ii) Obstructs others	F4	Met
6(iii) Worse price	F4	Met
s.244/5(4)	F9	Not used

3. Conclusion

In conclusion, because every element is met, her conduct also violates Section 244/3(2), which carries the heavier penalty in Section 296/1.

Facts F1–F6, F9–F12; Securities and Exchange Act ss.244/3(2), 244/5(4)(5), 296/1; Criminal Code s.59

Rule 3: Criminal Penalties

1. Law/Rule

Section 296

Any person who contravenes Section 240, Section 241, Section 242, Section 244/1, Section 244/2 or Section 244/3 (1) shall be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine from five hundred thousand baht to two million baht, or both.

Section 296/1

Any person who contravenes Section 244/3 (2) or Section 244/7 shall be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years or a fine from one million baht to five million baht, or both.

Section 296/2

... if the offender has received or should have received a benefit from such offence, a fine not exceeding two times the benefit shall be imposed and in any case such fine shall not be less than the minimum amount as specified under Section 296 or Section 296/1 ...

Section 297/1 (summary of (1) to (4))

When a court finds an offence under Section 296 or 296/1, it may order repayment of the benefit, a trading ban of up to five years, a director or executive ban of up to ten years, and reimbursement of SEC investigation costs.

Elements to prove

No.	Element
296	Contravenes s.244/3(1)
296/1	Contravenes s.244/3(2)
296/2 (a)	Offence under s.296 or 296/1
296/2 (b)	Received or should have received a benefit
297/1	A court finds the offence

Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535, ss.296, 296/1, 296/2, 297/1 (pp.97–98)

Rule 3: Analysis and Conclusion

2. Analysis

From the facts, Rules 1 and 2 show both offences, and the CSC ordered her to repay the benefit she received or should have received (F7). If she is prosecuted:

First, Section 296 is met for s.244/3(1): up to two years in prison, a fine of THB 0.5 to 2 million, or both.

Second, Section 296/1 is met for s.244/3(2), the heavier rule: up to five years in prison, a fine of THB 1 to 5 million, or both.

Third, both elements of Section 296/2 are met, so the fine may be up to two times the benefit, but not below the minimum (F7, F11).

However, Section 297/1 is not met yet, because no court has convicted her; the case is in the Civil Court (F8).

Element check

Element	Facts	Result
s.296	Rule 1	Met
s.296/1	Rule 2	Met
s.296/2 (a)	Rules 1–2	Met
s.296/2 (b)	F7, F11	Met
s.297/1	F8	Not yet

3. Conclusion

In conclusion, she faces up to five years in prison and a fine of up to two times the benefit (at least THB 1 million), unless the criminal right ends through the civil route in Rule 4.

Rule 4: Civil Sanctions

1. Law/Rule

Section 317/1(1)

The following offences shall be deemed the offences whereby civil sanctions may be imposed on the offenders: (1) committing unfair securities trading practice, which is an offence under Section 296 or Section 296/1;

Section 317/4

Civil sanctions shall be: (1) a civil penalty under Section 317/5; (2) a compensation at an equal amount to the benefit ...; (3) a suspension of trading ... not exceeding five years; (4) a bar from serving as a director or executive ... not exceeding ten years; (5) a reimbursement of investigative expenses incurred by the SEC Office.

Section 317/5(1)

... a civil penalty shall be imposed at an amount not exceeding two times the benefit ..., but not less than five hundred thousand baht ...

Sections 317/7 and 317/8

317/7: ... the offender agrees to comply with the specified civil sanction ... after the offender has made a payment in full, the right to institute a criminal prosecution shall extinguish.

317/8: In cases where the offender refuses to extinguish the case under Section 317/7, the SEC Office shall bring an action against the offender in the court ... the interest thereof shall be accumulated as from the date of entry of the plaint ... After the court has passed a judgment ... and the offender has made the payment in full, the right to institute criminal prosecution shall extinguish.

Elements to prove

No.	Element
317/1(1)	Offence under s.296 or 296/1
317/4	Sanctions within the limits
317/5(1)	Penalty up to 2 times the benefit, at least THB 0.5M
317/7	Offender consents and pays
317/8	Offender refuses, so the SEC sues

Rule 4: Analysis and Conclusion

2. Analysis

From the facts, the CSC imposed civil sanctions (F7), but she did not consent, so the SEC asked the prosecutor to sue her in the Civil Court (F8). Under Sections 317/1 to 317/8:

First, her offences are punishable under Sections 296 and 296/1 (Rule 3), so Section 317/1(1) is met.

Second, the CSC used all five sanctions in Section 317/4: THB 32,327,329 in total, a 6-month trading ban and a 12-month director ban, all within the limits (F7).

Third, the news does not split the THB 32.3 million into its parts, so we cannot check the Section 317/5(1) amount.

Fourth, she refused, so Section 317/7 is not met and Section 317/8 applies: the SEC claims THB 43,018,879.32 plus interest from the filing date (F8).

Element check

Element	Facts	Result
s.317/1(1)	Rule 3	Met
s.317/4	F7	Met
s.317/5(1)	No data	Cannot check
s.317/7	F8	Not met
s.317/8	F8	Met

3. Conclusion

In conclusion, civil sanctions apply to her; because she refused them, the case is before the Civil Court under Section 317/8, and the criminal right ends only after judgment and full payment.

Facts F7, F8; Securities and Exchange Act ss.317/1(1), 317/4, 317/5(1), 317/7, 317/8

Conclusion

In conclusion, นางสาวภรัณยา รุจนพรพจี has committed unfair securities trading under Section 244/3(1) and (2) of the Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535, because every element of both rules is met, supported by the presumption in Section 244/5(5). She may face up to five years in prison and a fine of up to two times the benefit under Sections 296/1 and 296/2. The SEC used civil sanctions instead; she refused the CSC's THB 32.3 million sanction, so under Section 317/8 the SEC is suing her in the Civil Court for THB 43.0 million plus interest.

Rule	Result
Rule 1: Section 244/3(1)	Violated: all 5 elements met, with presumption s.244/5(5)
Rule 2: Section 244/3(2)	Violated: all 6 elements met, including special intent
Rule 3: Criminal penalties	Up to 5 years in prison and a fine of up to 2 times the benefit, if prosecuted
Rule 4: Civil sanctions	THB 32.3 million refused; Civil Court claim of THB 43.0 million plus interest (pending)

Based on the facts reported in the news, as found by the SEC and the CSC. No court judgment had been reported as of October 2026.
